Fifty-sixth Annual Meeting

OF THE

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH-BUILDING SOCIETY.

The fifty-sixth annual meeting of the Congregational Church Building Society was held on Thursday, January 21st, 1909, at half-past four o'clock in the afternoon, in the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The President, Dr. Lucien C. Warner, presided at the meeting.

Prayer was offered by Rev. William H. Kephart.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were presented and reported as read and approved at the last annual meeting.

Secretary Charles H. Richards then read the Fifty-sixth Annual Report of the Board of Trustees, which was accepted and ordered placed on file and printed in the CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY.

The Treasurer's report for 1908 was read by Mr. Charles E. Hope, with the statement of the auditors, and it was accepted and ordered placed on file and printed in the CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY.

The reports of the Field Secretaries, Rev. Roy B. Guild (New England), Rev. William W. Newell, D.D. (The Interior), and Rev. H. H. Wikoff (Pacific District), and of Mrs. Charles H. Taintor, Assistant Field Secretary, were also accepted and ordered printed in the QUARTERLY.

A report of the Trustees on the proposed change in the charter or articles of incorporation, in accordance with the vote at the annual meeting of the Society last year, was made by President Warner, who stated that a bill is now being prepared for the New York Legislature which it is hoped will enable us to procure the desired change.

Upon motion, it was voted that the selection of the place for the next annual meeting be referred to the Board of Trustees with authority to appoint it at any place where it can legally be held.

The Nominating Committee made its report, nominating the following officers and Trustees, who were elected:

President.

LUCIEN C. WARNER, LL.D.

Vice-Presidents.

MR. H. CLARK FORD, Cleveland, Ohio.

Recording Secretary.

CHARLES H. RICHARDS.

Trustees.

For three years: L. C. Warner, LL.D., Rev. W. H. Kephart, Ernest Greene, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. Frederick Lynch.

Rev. W. W. McLane, D.D., of New Haven, Secretary of the National Council's Advisory Committee, spoke on the Apportionment Plan, followed by President Warner on the same subject.

Rev. W. W. Newell, D.D., of Chicago, Field Secretary for The Interior, made a brief address.

The minutes of this meeting were then read and approved.

A recess was then taken for dinner.

At 6:15 dinner was served. A large company gathered in the social rooms, and after prayer by the Rev. Henry A.

Stimson, D.D., of Manhattan Church, New York, a social hour was enjoyed by those gathered at the tables.

At eight o'clock the Society met again in the auditorium of the Church of the Pilgrims. The congregation united in singing "The Church's one foundation."

Prayer was then offered by the Rev. T. Aird Moffatt, of the First Congregational Church, Newark, N. J.

The Rev. Marion LeRoy Burton, Ph.D., pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims, gave cordial words of welcome to the Society, to which Dr. Lucien C. Warner happily responded in a brief address.

The Rev. Roy B. Guild, of Boston, Field Secretary for New England, spoke on "Glimpses of the Frontier Work," giving some account of his recent visit to Colorado and Wyoming.

The Rev. Henry Harris, of East St. Louis, Ill., who has had much practical experience as a church builder, gave an address entitled "Sparks from a Home Missionary's Anvil."

The Rev. Washington Gladden, D.D., LL.D., of Columbus, Ohio, a vice-president of the Society, then gave an address on "A Ministering Church."

The hymn, "I love Thy Kingdom, Lord," was then sung by the congregation.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles C. Creegan, D.D., of New York, and after the benediction the Society adjourned.

The We learn that twenty-two states are now business principles to the Lord's business. It seeks to have every member of our denomination give according to his ability to every branch of the work for the Kingdom which our churches have started, and for which they are responsible. It is proportionate giving according to the needs of each department. The plan is well started. It ought to bring fine returns.

Fifty-sixth Annual Report

BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE

PRESENTED BY SECRETARY CHARLES H. RICHARDS.

Fifty-five years ago this Society held its annual meeting in the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn, the first after its organization in the previous year in Broadway Tabernacle, New York. President Leonard Bacon was in the chair, and the eloquent young pastor, Richard Salter Storrs, was an active and interested participant in the meeting. We repeat history today by returning to hold the fifty-sixth annual meeting where that was held in 1854.

Great changes have occurred since that early meeting here. The denomination, which was then mainly a New England institution, has spread across the continent, and has had its chief development west of the Alleghenies. The little more than 2,000 churches have increased threefold, and the members even more than that. Those who gathered here then could hardly have guessed that the $1,766 raised that first year would be like seed corn, multiplying with each annual harvest, till by this year of grace nearly six millions of dollars would have been gathered to save the life of churches and pastors by giving them shelter. Nor could those men of prophetic vision, who started this work, foresee that by this time this Society would have helped to build nearly 4,000 houses of worship and 1,054 parsonages.

OUR WORK IN 1908.

Our work has been more arduous and difficult than usual during the past year on account of the financial depression which has been felt keenly by the churches. They have been less able to carry their plans to completion, and have found it harder to meet their obligations. We have shared with them their perplexities and burdens. But we have gone steadily forward, and are very grateful for the measure of success we have obtained.

Our Contributors in 1908 numbered 2,930 churches, besides many individuals. The number of giving churches is twenty-two more than in 1907. But we anticipate a much larger increase this year, since the Apportionment Plan recommended by the "Advisory Committee" is being so generally adopted throughout the country. That ought to bring to us this year an offering from every active church in our fellowship to help the needy sister churches in their time of crisis. If the 3,059 churches which sent us nothing last year join the ranks of helpers this year, and if all come up to the mark suggested by the "Advisory Committee," we shall be able to help many churches out of their distress, and meet the growing demand made upon us.

The Receipts of the year show the effect of the panic. It has been an "off year" in this respect, though nearly up to the average of the last six years, during which period we have received $1,544,792. Our receipts from all sources in 1908 were $248,152.97. We have also heard, since the Treasurer's report was completed, that special Congregational contributions have been paid directly to the churches which we are aiding, which are protected under our mortgages in accordance with our conditions, amounting to $11,977. Added to our regular receipts, this makes more than $260,000 secured for church building in 1908. Although this is less than the year previous, we are glad to report that the shrinkage is not in the contributions of the churches, which are some $4,000 larger than in 1907. The lessened receipts have been partly due to the inability of churches to complete their buildings in the hard times, so that we report $12,000 less of "specials," not sent to our treasury but paid directly to the churches, which we protect under our mortgages. It is partly due to the inability of other churches to repay the instalments due on their loans, so that we report nearly $9,000 less in that item. It is partly due to the inability of some friends to place annuity gifts with us, so that we report $6,000 less than the previous year from that source. The same reason has caused a shrinkage of over $4,000 in gifts for our Parsonage Fund.

While we regret this effect of the panic year, it has by no means crippled us. It has not plunged us into debt, for we never have a debt. It has only delayed us in coming as promptly as we desired to the relief of the churches in distress. It has compelled a delay of many months before their appeals could be responded to. But better times are already here and we look for a marked increase in the receipts of 1909.

We may well be encouraged by certain other features of the receipts.

Not less than one hundred and thirty thousand, six hundred and thirty-nine dollars ($130,639) came back to our treasury last year from churches which have been aided by us, and whose accounts are still open.

The Woman's Home Missionary Unions have helped to complete six churches and eight parsonages.

The Sunday Schools and the Christian Endeavor Societies have also sent us enough to help build four churches.

The Disbursements of the year have been less than in 1907. As soon as the churches to which aid has been voted, completed their buildings and could meet our conditions, we have sent the checks that paid last bills. Our grants and loans have been given to one hundred and one (101) churches and twenty-six (26) parsonages.

Geographically these churches thus aided have been in thirty-two (32) states in all parts of our country; four (4) in New England; nine (9) in the North Atlantic States; six (6) in the South; seventy-four (74) in the Interior; thirty-one (31) in the Pacific District, and three (3) in Porto Rico.

The Applications for aid have been more in number and more urgent than ever. This for two reasons: (1) the new spirit of life in the churches, compelling them to build or to enlarge, and (2) the greater need of help because of the hard times.

Ninety-eight (98) applications were brought over from 1907 because the available funds were not sufficient to respond to them in that year. One hundred and seventy-seven (177) new applications were received in 1906, making a total of two hundred and seventy-five (275) applications before our Board in that year. They are from every part of the country, and they called for $344,528. These are all good cases, sifted cases, strongly endorsed by Home Missionary Superintendents, State Secretaries and local Correspondents in the several states. The work of the Kingdom makes aid to them important, not to say imperative. But the amount asked is far in excess of our available funds. Therefore One Hundred and Five left over applications had to be deferred for action till after the new year, and they ask for $147,775. They are waiting now, as some of them have been for a year or more, for money enough to meet them.

Appropriations Voted number one hundred and seventy-one, of which thirty-eight (38) are Parsonage Loans, seventy-two (72) are Church grants, and sixty-one (61) are Church loans. One hundred and eighty thousand and twenty-eight dollars ($180,028) is thus pledged to 136 churches, some of which receive both grant and loan.

Closed Accounts. During the year seventy-seven churches have completed payment on their loans, or closed their accounts on our books for grants. Although released from legal liability, we are sure they will ever be mindful of the practical fellowship of the churches extended in their time of need, and they will wish to reach out a helping hand to others by an annual offering to our work. Since the beginning of our work there have been 1,039 church accounts thus closed, and 787 parsonage accounts.

Increase in Funds Demanded. The tremendous pressure upon us of late from every part of the land for aid which ought to be given, but which we have not money enough to give, has been very embarrassing. We have longed to come to the rescue, but can pledge no money except as we have it in hand, or immediately in sight. We have been compelled to be eight and ten, and even twelve months behind in our work. It is hard for the churches to wait nearly a year before any reply can be made to their appeal.

Such a situation, now so long continued that it seems to be chronic, appears to demand one of two things.

The first is to refuse fellowship to a large number of these appealing churches; to say that their distress is no concern of ours; to deny them our sympathy and a helping hand when in their need they cry out for aid; to let them die if they will, as many of them must if they are not helped to secure shelter. This is our attitude if too indifferent to give to this work, or if we give but the pittance that permits the Board to respond to only one-tenth of the applications each month. This is a good way to retard the growth of the denomination, and kill off the young churches, like the forty-two which were organized in Montana and North Dakota last year, which must have our help or they perish.

The other course is to secure a large increase in all our funds. This calls for a new interest and coöperation on the part of all our pastors and laymen. If every pastor, realizing that this work is his work in part, would make sure that his church should send us a generous annual offering to help the sister churches in their need, it would go far to solve this problem. We need another Dr. William M. Taylor to rise up as the special champion of the Parsonage Fund. We need another Joseph H. Stickney or Mrs. Mary Hawley or Solomon Mead, whose united gifts aggregated more than $375,000, to put into our Church Loan Fund, either by bequest or direct donation, enough to enable us to meet promptly these urgent calls for help. We know that there are many Christians whom God has blessed with wealth, more or less, and who are asking how best they can use it to promote the Kingdom of God. We are looking to see many of them build their monuments in the houses of worship they will help to secure, which years after they are gone will ring with the glad tidings of the Father's love, and whose heavenward pointing spires will show men the way to the Father's home.

Our Grant Fund needs an increase of at least $50,000, and it will get it if the churches come up to the mark set in the Apportionment Plan. Our Parsonage Loan Fund needs an immediate increase of at least $30,000 to match the demand. And our Church Loan Fund needs another $100,000 added to it, to enable us to do our full share of the work of evangelizing America.

We have tried last year, as always, to emphasize the spiritual side of our work. The churches we build are in themselves heralds of the gospel. Amid the homes of the people we help to erect the house of God, whose very presence speaks to men of conscience, of duty, of salvation from sin, of loyalty to God, of love toward men. It is a perpetual reminder of the Golden Rule. The more beautiful the building and the more inspiring the services, the better fitted is it to express the Christmas joy and the Easter hope. An attractive and tasteful house of worship, whether its cost be great or small, is in itself a preacher of culture, of righteousness, of the grace of God to his erring children, and of immortality.

But while we rejoice in this outer witness, we rejoice still more that the material building gives an opportunity for the voice of the living preacher to be heard, with its message of comfort and courage and its appeal to men to yield to the mastery of Christ. We are profoundly grateful for the thought that last year probably not less than 5,000 persons enlisted in the service of Christ on confession of their faith within the walls which we have helped to erect.

One of the important aids to our work for many years has been the Church-Building Quarterly, which was started by Dr. Cobb, when he became Secretary in 1882, and which for twenty-six years has told the story of our steadily developing work. It has kept pastors and churches in touch, not only with our central office, but with each other all over the country. Maine has felt the pulse-beat of need in far-off Oregon, and Florida has felt the heart-throb of fraternal love in Illinois through its medium. It has undoubtedly been a factor of great importance in increasing our receipts. Its vigorous life of twenty-six years is now about to be ended. The January number which reports this meeting will be its last, for it is to be merged with others in the New Joint Magazine, in which all of our six Homeland Societies will unite in presenting their work to the churches and the world. We believe there will be a great gain in this united presentation of a common work, which through these several departments aims at one common end—the evangelization of America. While many will miss the old familiar friends, the separate magazines, we believe all will welcome the new messenger which will tell the whole story of our entire Homeland work.

We are glad to report that our working force remains the same as at the beginning of last year. No break has occurred in the ranks of our Trustees, our officers, or our Field Secretaries. To the latter, whose reports for the year are presented herewith, we owe a great debt of gratitude for the faithful and strenuous service they have rendered during the year. We also appreciate with deep thankfulness the splendid voluntary assistance given by the three hundred and eighteen men in the different states—the State Secretaries, Local Correspondents and Home Missionary Superintendents, who have given us constant advice and aid during the year.

Grateful to God for the past, we look forward to the year just opening with the confident hope that in it the Great Head of the Church will crown our work with larger blessing than ever.

Fourteenth Annual Report of Rev. H. H. Wikoff.

FIELD SECRETARY FOR THE PACIFIC DISTRICT.

Nothing in the year just closing has been of greater importance to the writer than his journey East and presence at the annual meeting last January. Attendance upon a session of the Board revealed to him the personnel of the same, the spirit of helpfulness manifested by these pastors and laymen, giving their time and thought for the sake of the churches, and enabled him to see the whole work from the standpoint of those who live in the midst of that portion of the Fellowship which has contributed and is contributing so largely for the advancement of the work. Presence at the annual meeting, somewhat more representative than has usually been the case, revealed a goodly number of men and women interested in church and parsonage building, back of whom we knew were churches and congregations ready to listen to any stirring appeals these might make in behalf of the cause.

And then the journey! Not a new experience, for the continent had been crossed several times before, but varied by the delightful respites in such cities as Denver, Atlanta, Dallas and Fort Worth. In all these, glimpses were gained of our work, giving one a larger view than even so extensive a district as the Pacific affords. Pleasure was realized in the interest manifested as the representative spoke of the work which for fourteen years has been so dear to his heart. In all, thirteen addresses were made, in the cities named, in Chicago, and in and about New York. Absent five Sundays, all but one found your representative busy with this work, while on several week nights he "lifted up his voice" in behalf of Church Building. Travel and work may have made the trip somewhat arduous, but the meeting with the officers, members and friends of the Board, and the intermingling of thought with those somewhat widely separated in their vision point was not without its benefits to your representative.

Within the district work has been much as usual. Visits have been confined to the three great states bordering on the ocean, with the hope that in the year 1909 more attention may be given to the vast outlying region where missionary work is so much needed, and, as I am glad to say, being pushed with wisdom and determination. Going from place to place, as well as corresponding with brethren desirous of building, one finds a demand for enlightenment as to "Church Plans." With regret I have been obliged to say we have nothing to offer just now. I am glad to know that a booklet is being prepared, giving directions and outlines for structures, modest but attractive. Only recently a very successful superintendent called my attention to the need of such a guide, and expressed the wish that one might soon be ready. Your representative gives this as one of the "practical remarks" made to him by brethren interested in the advancement of the work.

I am glad to report the quite general acceptance of the National Committee's plan of Systematic Beneficence. In state and local conferences, committees have been appointed for apportionment to the respective bodies, and in time we may hope to realize the figures set before us. Several of the state bodies have accepted the National Committee's apportionment for the state, and there are some churches in various parts of the district which have cheerfully provided the amounts asked from them. As time advances and the churches become more familiar with the plan, and especially with the needs, there is reasonable expectation that our Society will receive from the respective states all that the present plan contemplates.

In closing, let me add that the churches have felt, in a degree at least, the stringency of the times. Living seems to be growing more expensive while incomes are not increasing, and hence the gifts may, in a measure, have fallen off. But it is a pleasure to report—on this nearly last day of the year—that the response to our appeals has been quite widespread, and I am looking, when the figures are all before me, to find this district doing as well as last year. But whether this be so or not, some, longing for help from our Board, and compelled to wait because of our lack of funds, have been brought to the realization that the Congregational Church Building Society cannot give what it does not possess, and that if our work is to go on as it should, the churches must take it more to heart and give it the place in their benevolent efforts which its importance demands. If the delay occasioned by lack of funds shall serve to arouse the denomination to a sense of the distress experienced by many throughout the land engaged in new projects, the suffering of the latter may not have been in vain. Let us thus hope, and look forward to the best year in the history of our Church Building Society.

Fourth Annual Report of William W. Newell, D.D.

FIELD SECRETARY FOR THE INTERIOR DISTRICT.

A twenty-five thousand mile journey up and down the highways of this Interior District will persuade the traveler that not only is the heart of the country here geographically, but that the heart of the nation is here as well. This journey which your Field Secretary has taken this past year has touched some of the sacred spots in American life. The first address of Abraham Lincoln in ratification of the nomination of John C. Fremont for the presidency, was in the Goose Pond Congregational Church in Central Illinois. It was the only church in Central Illinois open to Abraham Lincoln in that day. The railway had filled in a goose pond and given land for the church site. The little handful of church members wrote to their home church in New England for aid, and from the first fund which was raised for Congregational Church Building, now known as the Albany Fund, $200 was sent to the Goose Pond Church, for it had no other name. It is now the University Church of Illinois, as the great state university is there with its four thousand seven hundred and fifty students, more than any university in the East save Harvard; and of the deans of the departments, seven belong to this fine organization, which was made possible by this early aid. Such centers of power are everywhere bearing their testimony to the wisdom of the fathers, who from the settled and cultured life of the East had time and money for investment here.

And there are other spots as sacred as this one, which for over half a century has been holding men true to the highest character and conception of truth; places made sacred by the new life which seeks expression there. New reservations are continually being opened for settlement. Thirty thousand people will live for days in and about a town with accommodations for two thousand, and after the drawing for land is over will scatter to the farms and town sites in the new district. Stores will follow them and so will schools; the church of Christ misses a priceless opportunity if it cannot offer to these settlers who are leaving the old home life behind, the encouragement and the steady influence of the gospel ministry. For this, church buildings and parsonages are needed. The great irrigation plans of the government and of private enterprises are opening for settlement some millions of acres. These lands have been unavailable for farming and were only valuable for the grazing of scattered cattle until a canal was run from the river, or a dam created a great reservoir, or until the artesian well was sunk; then it blossomed with a fertility which cannot be understood by those who have no acquaintance with the facts. Suffice it to say, that these lands have gone in price from ten dollars an acre to two thousand dollars an acre, and now produce, not uncommonly, twenty-five per cent return per annum on this latter valuation. Such development as this means close settlement, for but a little of land of so great value can fall to any one man's share. Here is the opportunity of the church to step into the places where two things will follow; first, the good to the community from the church's presence; and second, the good to the church from the aid which will come back to it from the generosity of these men who have been made rich by the soil. As the president of one of our colleges said to the writer within the month: "We must take a trip together through one of these regions, and the policy we must plan out should not be for a year, but for a period of years. If we plant right, we shall reap a great harvest."

In the large centers, the work of the Church Building Society is becoming increasingly valuable. The burning of the fine First Church, of Muscatine, Iowa, would have greatly crippled the service of a splendid work, had not the aid of the Society been available. The new church is a great improvement on the old. Your representative preached the dedicatory sermon here, as he has done during the year in a number of the more important cities of this district, as for the North Church, Detroit, Michigan.

A new arrangement is, for your Field Secretary to lecture each year to the senior class of the Chicago Theological Seminary on the work of the Society, to be followed by questions and discussion. Two of these lectures have been given in 1908, and from the interest displayed in the work of the Society, we shall gain, through the co-operation of the new men as they get into the places of responsibility.

It has been a year of financial difficulties. Following the panic there has been a slow recovery. Men differ here as to whether the East or the West shall fully recover first, but it is certain the West has not yet got back to what is considered normal. Reports from conservative business men who travel widely are that a loss of twenty-five per cent. has occurred in general business for the year just closed. Benevolence funds do not recover as rapidly, probably, as business, but from the better tone everywhere found there is great encouragement for a gain in the new year. In the meantime, from the new territory now opened to settlers, through the introduction of irrigation, and from the growing towns through the entire Mississippi Valley, as well as in our great cities, there is an increasing expression of gratitude to the denomination for the aid in church and parsonage building extended through the Congregational Church Building Society.

First Annual Report of Rev. Roy B. Guild.

FIELD SECRETARY FOR NEW ENGLAND.

In making this first annual report to the Directors of the Congregational Church Building Society, I take great pleasure in speaking of the good will established for this Society through the nineteen years of earnest, thorough work by my predecessor, the Rev. George A. Hood. On every side I hear words of cordial commendation, and his many friends have given me a cordial welcome because of their friendship for Mr. Hood. His task here was a difficult one, but his enthusiasm did not abate in the least. We are now gathering some good fruit from the seed he sowed in faithfulness and prayer.

The churches of New England have not given as cordial support to the Church Building Society as to other Congregational agencies. This is due to the fact that the present congregations worship, in the majority of places, in buildings they inherited. Thus they know nothing of the trials of building in a new community where most of the citizens are just establishing themselves. Another reason is, that the Church Building Society has had only one in this field of 1,600 churches to give a personal presentation. The American Board, the American Missionary Society and the Home Missionary Society have at their command many who have a personal knowledge of the work. New England contributors seem to desire information by word of mouth from those who have first hand information.

The Apportionment Plan will lessen this difference in the response to the true needs of various agencies, and will materially help the Church Building Society where the importance of its work is the least appreciated. It is encouraging to note in correspondence how many churches have adopted or are favorably considering the above-named plan.

Your Secretary spent six weeks traveling in the West, South and Southwest, giving some twenty-five addresses on our work among the foreign-born and their children, at the same time gathering information that has been very helpful in presenting the work. In the first month two gifts amounting to $2,000 were secured in response to the presentation of the facts gleaned on the field. Such visits should be made at least once in two years. We are anticipating having Rev. Henry Harris, of East St. Louis, Ill., in New England for six weeks, to tell of needy work undertaken and accomplished that could not have been thought of save for the knowledge that the Church Building Society would pay last bills.

During this year $49,094.06 was received from all sources in the New England field. Depending upon the intelligent interest of the pastors, their support by their churches, and the influence of the spirit and purpose of the Apportionment Plan, we should in another year receive much more.

Annual Report of Mrs. Charles H. Taintor.

ASSISTANT FIELD SECRETARY, CLINTON, CONN.

My work for the Congregational Church Building Society has kept me very busy during the twelve months of 1908. I have made many addresses, in each of the New England States and in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia. I have found a very warm welcome wherever I have gone.

My work has been chiefly with the women of our churches and with the Woman's Home Missionary Unions, all of which have manifested a great interest, and have arranged to send offerings for the needy churches in the far west and for parsonage buildings. Women naturally take a deep interest in the work which touches the family life of our Home Missionaries and which protects the mothers and children from suffering. One good woman, just entering her ninety-fourth year, whose faculties are still keen, and whose fingers are busily employed in work for the Master's Kingdom, sent me her annual donation with a letter full of deep sympathy for our work and our workers.

A frontier pastor, who feels sorely the need of a house of worship, writes me: "I would like to preach from the text 'Ye shall keep my sabbaths and reverence my sanctuary.' I wish it only were possible for me to realize in experience the thought expressed in the following lines:"

"O sweeter than the marriage feast,
 'Tis sweeter far to me
 To walk together to the kirk
 With a goodly company ;
 To walk together to the kirk,
 And all together pray,
 While each to his great Father bends,
 Old men, and boys and loving friends,
 And youths and maidens gay."

He closes his letter with a prayer for God's blessing upon the Church Building Society.

The great "Reaper" has been busy during the past year among the givers to our cause. Twenty-nine deaths have occurred among those who were in the habit of giving to the Parsonage Fund. I have not as yet found their successors, but shall earnestly seek them during the current year.

I find that our Society is looked upon with great favor wherever I go, and I am in receipt of more invitations to speak concerning its work than I can fill.

January Appropriations. Owing to the unusually large receipts in January our Board was able to vote at its January meeting five parsonage loans, thirteen grants, and six church loans. The parsonage loans were for North Berkeley, Cal.; Ramona, Cal.; Kenwood, Cal.; Mitchell, S. D., and Wahoo, Neb. The grants were for Mitchell, S. D.; Atlanta, First, Ga.; Gwinner, N. D.; Marshall, Ill.; Lusk, Wyo.; Wind Gap, Pa.; Pine-dale, Wyo.; McIntosh, Ga.; Myers Falls, Wash.; Sunny Slope, Okla.; Sierra Madre, Cal.; Two Rivers, Wis., and Stratton, Colo. The church loans were for Mitchell, S. D.; Atlanta, First, Ga.; Marshall, Ill.; Minneapolis, Linden Hills, Minn.; Two Rivers, Wis., and Kansas City, First, Kas. It took $31,250 from our treasury to meet the urgent needs of these twenty churches.

San Francisco and Suburbs.

About the Golden Gate is Greater San Francisco. Though metropolis and suburbs are not yet a civic unit, their relationship is so intimate that doubtless they must, ere long, become so. When realized, it will include portions of five counties, have a population of 750,000 or more, with bank clearings of $50,000,000 per week—greater than the clearings of all other Coast cities combined.

On one of the world's finest harbors, whose shores can accommodate the factories needed by millions of people; with mountains not so far distant but that power can be easily transmitted therefrom, and the melted snows thereof furnish water as pure and bracing as man's palate may ever crave; with a climate never bitterly cold, and rarely, if ever, excessively hot, yet withal so stimulating that one need never cease his activities from ennui; with a country at its back as extensive as several eastern states, and parts thereof as fertile as the Valley of the Nile; with railroads entering from north, south and east, and others approaching; with access to the sea such as few great cities can equal and none surpass; with educational facilities comparing favorably with any community in the land, and with a people gathered from the four quarters of the earth, intelligent, alert, aggressive; this metropolitan center is by far the largest on the western slope and bids fair to some day rank with Chicago and New York.

Here Congregationalism had an entrance just sixty years ago. Hither in October, 1848, came Rev. T. Dwight Hunt, from Honolulu, drawn by friends who had deserted him there that they might find gold in the new Eldorado. Chaplain of the newly formed community for a few months, he was called to the leadership in forming the First Congregational Church. This was July 29, 1849, and though the organization was antedated by one or more similar organizations in Oregon, the house of worship, dedicated in February, 1850, was one of the first in San Francisco and the first Congregational meetinghouse west of the mountains. In time it gave way to one more commodious, and the latter to a third, a stately and elegant structure, enjoyed many years, but destroyed by the terrible calamity of April, 1906. On the same site now stands the fourth edifice, not so pretentious, but very attractive within, admirably adapted to present needs. This was the first church edifice erected after the fire on the former site, a realization due largely to the wise and untiring efforts of the greatly beloved pastor, Rev. Geo. C. Adams, D.D., whose recent restful trip around the world has restored him to his wonted health and strength, much to the delight of his many friends.

INTERIOR FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

For a decade or more in the early days, the First Church served well the Congregationalists coming to these shores. Then, with developing suburbs, new projects were launched, Oakland, First, being organized in 1860. This is now the largest church in the bay region, indeed on the coast, save one, having a membership of one thousand six hundred, with additions at each communion. Its pastor, Rev. Chas. R.

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, OAKLAND, CAL.

Brown, D.D., the worthy successor of Mooar and McLean, just returned from six months abroad, was given a reception by the citizens of Oakland, in evidence of the esteem in which he is held by the community. Greatly beloved by his people, he is leading them to larger and larger realizations and greater and greater activities. From the date of this organization there has been a gradual development of Congregationalism until at present Greater San Francisco has thirty-five churches, with a combined membership of four thousand seven hundred, property valuation somewhat more than $1,000,000, with annual expenses reaching $148,000, and benevolences $40,537. Fourteen of these churches are in San Francisco, seven in Oakland, four in Berkeley, two in Alameda and one each in eight suburbs. All but three have buildings, while five just now are in such a degree of expansion that enlarged or new structures are imperative. Nineteen have received aid from the Congregational Church Building Society, and at this time two are seeking additional assistance. Our Fourth Church, formerly called the Green Street Church, San Francisco, the first after the fire to build a temporary structure on the old lot, is hoping to complete an Institutional plant soon, much having already been donated, and $5,000 being now pledged by an eastern friend on condition that $10,000 more be raised. The pastor, Rev. E. L. Walz, and his wife are giving themselves unreservedly to this work, and their devotion and self-sacrificing effort assure success to this very important enterprise.

PARK CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

An important factor in the development of our work has been the fellowship embodied in the Church Extension Society. Originally including both sides of the bay, it is confined now to the limits of the San Francisco Association. In the fifteen years of its existence it has been of great value, both in counsel and financial assistance. Park, Richmond, Bethlehem and Sunset owe their present life and property largely to such expression of fellowship. In and about Oakland the Prudential Committee, creature of the Bay Association, is doing a similar work, Second, Fourth, Plymouth, Fruitvale and Berkeley Park rejoicing in a generous lift extended in the time of need. Possibly with the coming of Greater San Francisco, forces on either side of the Bay may unite, employ a city missionary and do a more aggressive work than otherwise is possible, though happily, at present, such are the united efforts of the representatives of the Home Missionary Society and of the Sunday School and Publishing Society, that new enterprises are springing up quite as rapidly as we are able to take care of them.

Among the forces for Congregationalism and the Kingdom having their origin in this region, must be mentioned The Pacific. Knowing the value of the religious press, the fathers early combined their efforts and in 1851 gave to the churches, few though they were, the first copy of a religious weekly, which, by the way, is the oldest paper now in California. Before the coming of the overland railroad, when eastern papers were several weeks old on arrival, The Pacific was especially helpful in disseminating church news and upholding the standard of righteousness in the midst of a people well-nigh gone mad in their pursuit of gold. It abides with us still, and though the weeklies from beyond the mountains are at our doors soon after the date of publication, The Pacific is welcomed in many homes, and continues to stand for all that is pure and righteous in home and church and civic life.

Nor must we forget that in this center Congregationalism had its part in the affairs of education. Rev. Samuel Willey, the first missionary sent to California by the American Home Missionary Society, identified with the Presbyterians until 1869, joined with others in establishing the College of California, now our thriving state University in Berkeley, with over three thousand students. Later the Rev. Jos. Benton, D.D., founder of our church in Sacramento, later with Plymouth Church, San Francisco, united forces with Rev. Geo. Moor, D.D., and Rev. I. E. Dwinelle, D.D., and as a result our Theological Seminary, formerly in Oakland, now in Berkeley, was established. With a present endowment of one-half million, with nearly one hundred graduates doing excellent work, with twenty-eight now in attendance, and with Rev. John Knox McLean, D.D., its worthy president, it is making itself felt for good in the state and along the coast.

Such in brief is Congregationalism in San Francisco and vicinity. Space forbids extended reference to the fine personalities devoting themselves to the furtherance thereof. But enough has been revealed to justify our history and to give assurance that in this important center large things, with God's blessing, will be realized in the days to come.

The Waiting Churches. Of the churches now asking our aid — many of which have been waiting nearly a year for money enough to come to our treasury with which response could be made to their appeal — sixteen are in places where there is no other church. Unless we can come to the rescue there will be no religious services in those sixteen places.

One request for a parsonage loan is from a place in the Big Horn country in Wyoming, where the minister, with his wife and five children, has been living in a tiny car-shaped shack of two rooms, unplastered and bitterly cold. There is no other place in town he can get. "This is a humanity and emergency case," writes the Superintendent. Another appeal for a parsonage loan is from a mining camp in the heart of the Cœur d'Alenes in northern Idaho, where the church has been mainly composed of and administered by women, but the illness of the pastor has awakened the men and caused them to rally to his aid. The minister had not salary enough to pay rent, so he moved into the church parlors, which had to be used three or four times a week for church meetings. They determined to have a parsonage. They organized a "booster club" to promote the plan. The minister and his men are doing much of the work on the house. It is hard being preacher, carpenter, and chief booster at the same time. They need our helping hand.

A Practical Church Builder.

The story of the Rev. Henry Harris, the artisan-preacher.

The story of the Rev. Henry Harris, the artisan preacher, is a good illustration of the fact that "diversities of gifts" are of great service in the work of the Kingdom. The son of a carpenter, and himself trained to be an expert blacksmith, he is a man of deep religious spirit, and identified himself with the church at an early age. His education has been both that of the schools and the shop. Brought up on the frontier of Michigan, he early gained much experience in helping to solve the problems of young and struggling churches.

Drawn to the ministry, he felt that he had been providentially equipped by his manual skill to be a church builder. He was a master of several trades and not a tyro in any. He could read blue prints like a contractor. His broad shoulders and iron muscles gave him an athlete's power in any physical contest. With his own hands, and with the co-operative labor of his parishioners, he could build a church with a surprising saving of cost.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, REDRIDGE, MICH.

His first church was at Redridge in his native state, Michigan, where he had no opportunity to carry out his plan, as it already had a house of worship. He had a successful pastorate of several years here.

In 1893 he found his way to the town of Lyons, Colorado, to work at his trade. It was the boast of the lawless and irreligious people in this town that no religious work had been able to get a foothold. Its population consisted mostly of brawling young men employed in the stone quarries.

Finding they had no religious services, he volunteered to hold services in the schoolhouse. The first Sunday evening bedlam broke loose. The young men attended in a body and the confusion was so great as to make it almost impossible to hear. A number of the older citizens said at the close of the service that they would like to have a place of religious worship "like civilized people." Mr. Harris told them not to get discouraged, but to give him a chance. The next day he repaired to a local smithy and asked for the hardest job the foreman had. The young fellows opened their eyes to the widest extent when the despised "sky pilot" bared a torso worthy of Hercules and began raining thunderous blows upon an anvil. Next, taking a sledge in each hand, he began showering ringing blows upon a chisel placed on the anvil, striking the small target unerringly each time. He next brandished the weighty hammers about his head as swiftly and dexterously as if they had been Indian clubs.

Several of the powerful young men attempted to do the same but, not knowing how, they gloriously failed.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, LYONS, COLO.

By the next Sunday the minister's prowess had been bruited through the camp. The schoolhouse was crammed, and a crowd pressed about each window on the outside to see the anticipated circus.

"Before I begin my sermon," said Mr. Harris, "I have a short announcement to make. In the first place I am glad to welcome you all here, especially the young men. Some of the people here are anxious for religious services, and I have been foolish enough to say I will try and hold them. I am a stickler for order and carrying out my program. Some of you may be inclined to question my right to hold religious services in Lyons. Such persons may possibly learn that though I am to preach, I was not reared with kid gloves." It is needless to say the service proceeded without molestation. In a few months Lyons was adorned with a $3,500 stone church, the material for which was quarried and the labor of erection performed by the men of the town under the active supervision of the versatile preacher. So enthusiastically was his fame spread among the men as "a preacher who is one of ourselves," that he easily built a second church three miles away for another community of mill hands.

Using the same methods, drawing the plans, working with his own hands and enlisting the skill of his congregation, he next built a church at East Moline, Ill., a manufacturing town, and still another two miles west and within the city limits of Moline itself. In the former place he led in the construction of a neat house of worship built of concrete blocks. In the latter, he rallied his people to the task of building a good frame church, with a cosy parsonage beside it. He thus secured on this field three buildings whose total value was $7,800. In addition to the aid from the Congregational Church Building Society, a considerable amount of the value in these buildings represents the donated labor of the pastor and his men.

After these successes, which had aroused the interest of the officials of his denomination, he was appointed "church-building missionary," and assigned to special work.

UNION CHURCH AND PARSONAGE, MOLINE, ILL.

His next assignment was Cherry, Ill., a coal-mining town. When he arrived, he found that a congregation existing in the town owned a lot, which had never been improved. In the afternoon he armed himself with appropriate tools and proceeded to stake out the boundaries of a basement and began excavating it.

The coal miners, passing on their way home, paused to gape in astonishment at the minister's hardy toil and stalwart blows with the spade.

"'Watcherdoin'?" was finally demanded of him.

"Building a church," he replied, tossing aside a huge spadeful of soil. Then one spectator expressed his profane unwillingness to remain idle while so exemplary a work was in progress, and sprang into the trench with his shovel. A score of others followed, and for two nights, while the moon shone benignantly, the preacher and his volunteers labored happily. At the end of that time the cellar was finished.

"Boys," then announced Mr. Harris, adopting their own dialect, "you are the first 'gang' that ever made me back up from fatigue."

The miners received with great complacency this compliment to their backs and shoulders, inured to the strain of the spade, and insisted upon constructing walls of concrete for the basement. Their labor completed the church.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, CHERRY, ILL.

When the minister-pioneer arrived in East St. Louis a year ago to take charge of a forlorn hope there, he found, as his church, a basement and a small congregation, most of whom were out of work on account of the financial depression. An indebtedness of nearly $500 was saddled on the excavation. His instructions were to sell the well-walled basement if he found it impracticable to complete the church which had been planned.

He studied the blue prints embodying the plans of the proposed church, and ingeniously modified them so as to lessen their expense and still preserve the full advantage of the completed basement. He obtained a $2,000 appropriation from the Congregational Church Building Society, donned his overalls, armed himself with trowel, saw and hammer, and rallied his congregation to his aid.

His enthusiasm was contagious, and day after day the men, being unemployed elsewhere, ungrudgingly gave their labor free to their church. Sometimes as many as a dozen, trained bricklayers, carpenters and painters, were working at once, attempting to maintain the strenuous pace set by their preacher.

As a result, to-day the church is practically finished. In the meantime, Mr. Harris showed his ability for finance by paying the outstanding debts and raising $500 in cash to aid the erection of the church.

The Goodrich Congregational Church, at Nineteenth Street and Bond Avenue, East St. Louis, which he thus helped to build, is a mile from any other place of worship. The population within this radius, though dense, has never been able to own a place of worship.

It is a handsome brick structure, with a decorative belfry, and its red body is relieved by ornaments of white stone. In the basement is a commodious room for minor meetings, and above is a spacious auditorium for services. Adjacent is a roomy parsonage of eight rooms. The edifice proudly overlooks the neighborhood, a striking monument to the ingenuity and labors of its builder, whose own hands laid many of its bricks, sawed many of its beams and drove uncounted nails into its walls.

Rev. Mr. Harris, forty-two years old, is in the prime of life and of magnificent physique. Constant toil has kept his shoulders as broad and athletic, his back and chest muscles as massive and his biceps as hard as when he delivered smashing blows upon the anvil.

His eyes are clear and keen, mirrors of enthusiasm and strength. His tireless will is stamped on the jaws, which seem clasped with iron bands. But the voice which issues from his firm lips is gentle and modest.

His large hands are scarred with toil and eloquently proclaim their power with the sledge and their dexterity with the saw and plane. He is emphatically no "kid glove" preacher.

He speaks diffidently of his own triumphs, though he is fully aware that they may mean a new era in the religious life of the working classes. He is anxious that ministers in his own and other denominations shall be inspired to follow his example.

"I hope many mechanics will be moved to enter the ministry," he said, "for there is a great field for them. They should not become preachers to escape the toil of their class and win an easy living. They should take their trades with them and employ them in the service of religion.

"The more scholarly clergy are needed in prosperous and cultured communities. But artisans, working among their own people, can do an immense good by consecrating their trades to the holy purpose of the church, just as other ministers consecrate their education."

Rev. Mr. Harris, himself an enthusiastic union man, has had little difficulty in persuading the unions not to disturb his work, though he has had many arguments with walking delegates who objected to their men toiling without pay. His representations that his object, unquestionably an upright one, could be accomplished in no other way, have always protected him from interference.

The Profit in Church Building in Porto Rico.

By THE REV. OTTO J. SCHEIBE, HUMACAO, P. R.

That a regular church edifice is one of the first essentials to mission work in Porto Rico, is the verdict of every well-informed and experienced missionary on The Island.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, HUMACAO, P. R.

There is a reason for this, and if acquainted with the conditions here, we shall see at a glance why this is so.

At the outset let me say that the Island of Porto Rico has been strictly a Roman Catholic country; strictly so, because for 400 years the only religion permitted on the Island was the above named. It is true that in Ponce there was an Episcopal church, but, under treaty of England and Spain, only to render service to English subjects, and when it became progressive in its work the treaty was canceled, and this resulted in the closing of the church. Under this one system all the people were compelled to adhere to this religion.

All religious rights under the law and the government were so combined that separation was impossible.

Under these conditions we find the people of Porto Rico well instructed in the ways and teachings of the Roman church; particularly in the matter of church building. It is hardly possible for the Roman church to celebrate its masses without a building. So in almost every town we find a church building. Some are small, while others are large and fine structures. This building we find, as a rule, in the center of the town. The best site is for the church, and as men pass they lift their hats saying, "It is the church." It has the respect of all: even if in a superstitious way, nevertheless, it commands universal regard.

Now then, for the Christian church to come to a Roman country, and begin its work, we must have a building to work in. Our services are very simple. The minister is without the gorgeous gown; there is no burning of candle and incense, nor a lot of little boys to assist in the service. All is a strange contrast to their elaborate masses. Then for us to conduct our meetings in homes or on the street or in rented buildings is contrary to their ideals of worship. The poor, ignorant people here cannot understand this method, and somehow it does not impress them as the right way.

But when we have a building that resembles somewhat their church, a building that has been built for the special purpose of worship, and dedicated to God, then it is much easier to make them understand our position, and not only that, but they respect us and our work.

In the old rented room formerly used for our services, we would often have a man come in smoking, and he would sit down with his hat on. It was not his fault; he was ignorant of what was going on. But I have nothing of that kind now. All know it is a church and they respect it as such. Then it helps in attendance. With every effort we could put forth, it was hard to hold a congregation in the rented hall. Our attendance has doubled in the new church and is growing. It was not only a new thing, but we have been holding meetings for nine months and the attendance is on the increase still. Although on a rainy Sunday when in the old place we had almost no one out, yet recently on a Sunday after the great storm scare, with the storm flag still hoisted, and when many had their clothes packed away for flight, we had seventy at the Sunday-school in a falling rain.

But not only in the town has the church its influence. The country people also look to the Sunday morning when they can come to the Sunday-school, or morning service in the new church. It gives confidence in our work and aids us in every way.

If, then, a building has such influence in promoting the work, why continue to pay rent from year to year on a room which is a drawback to the work? Why not use that money in building churches, and enjoy the full value of its returns?

In my field there are two towns that need a church home. In Yabucoa we have a fine native preacher who has given good service, and has a strong congregation. This town needs a building; $3,000 would build a church there. At present we are paying $12 per month for rent, $144 a year, and then have not near the result for the money that we would have if we had a building. The congregation would be doubled in six months if we had a proper church.

In Juncos also we need a church home, and until we have it the Juncos church will not be a great power. Conditions there are such that only through the best efforts and equipment will it be possible to make the church a strong and uplifting power in that community.

The Church-Building Quarterly.

It is twenty-six years ago that this QUARTERLY was born. Before that time a yearly bulletin had been issued by the American Congregational Union, with an account of the annual meeting, reports of collections, a list of churches aided, a list of life members, and other appropriate material.

The advent of Dr. Cobb brought a marked change and a more aggressive spirit. He felt that a magazine, regularly issued, was needed to keep the churches informed of the tremendous needs of the frontier, and the way in which this Society tried to meet them. He started the CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY as a mirror in which the East might see the struggles and perils of the West, and in which the West might see the generosity of the East.

The first number was issued in January, 1883. For more than a quarter of a century it has continued to tell the story of our growing work. It has recorded the remarkable increase in our receipts and in the number of givers. It has vividly pictured the difficulties and dangers that beset the young churches in mining camps and frontier villages. It has echoed the appeal from heroic home missionaries. It has told the story of the beginning and growth of the Parsonage Fund. It has magnified the importance of church buildings which are attractive and in good taste, and has elevated the standard of architecture among our churches. It has embellished its pages with multitudes of pictures and floor plans, showing what our churches have done in this direction.

Undoubtedly the magazine has added much to the efficiency of our work and to the interest of pastors and churches in it. Had we no one but ourselves to think of, we should doubtless continue it. But we represent only a part of the great benevolent work of our denomination. That is seven-fold, and all the parts are interdependent and necessary to the success of the whole work. The churches wish to see the work as a whole, each part distinctly visible, but all working together for the common end of advancing the Kingdom of God. All the Homeland Societies are surrendering their separate magazines, that they may appear together in a single joint magazine in which the churches may see in its entirety our common work for America.

The CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY, therefore, with a splendid history behind it, is merged in the new magazine, in the hope that it is to gain much and lose nothing, since the work it represents will appear in its vital relation to all the other work of our denomination. It disappears as an individual publication after this number, only to re-appear in a group including all its co-laborers engaged in Congregational work for Our Country.

No one can read the article in this number on Rev. Henry Harris. "A Practical Church Builder" without being deeply impressed by our indebtedness to a class of practical ministers of whom Mr. Harris is a fine representative. We are under obligations to the St. Louis Globe-Despatch for the picture at the head of the article, and for part of the other material.

The New Joint Magazine. All the Homeland Missionary Societies of the Congregational churches—six of them—are to unite in publishing a Joint Magazine which shall present their entire work for our country each month. The first number will appear April 1, 1909. The separate magazines—The Home Missionary, The American Missionary, The Church Building Quarterly, and The Pilgrim Missionary, will be merged in the new magazine. Congregational Work will be discontinued. The name will be "The American Missionary." The subscription price is to be fifty cents a year for single subscribers. It will contain about one hundred pages each month. Present subscribers to the existing publications named above will receive the new magazine till their subscriptions expire, when it is hoped that they will at once subscribe to the new magazine. Life Members of this Society will receive the new magazine, but many of them will regard it as a privilege to send their personal subscription each year, and help the magazine to be self-supporting. Brotherhood men and the "wise-hearted women" who are interested in our Homeland Work, will find ample recognition.

The Joint Campaign. Another illustration of the unity of our benevolent work as a denomination is seen in the Joint Campaign now in progress for an immediate advancement of all our missionary work. All our seven Congregational Societies are participating in it, that the churches throughout the country may be awakened to the magnitude and needs of our work for America and the World. It is hoped to secure in immediate contributions from individuals who are interested in the work not less than a round half million dollars for the pressing necessities of the several departments of our missionary service. Three great societies are heavily burdened with debts incurred for work already done which could not be abandoned. This is part of the work of the churches for which we are responsible.

The first $273,000 of the half million dollars is to be applied to canceling these debts, that thus the American Board, the Congregational Home Missionary Society and the American Missionary Association may be delivered from the crippling burden and set free for their proper service. These three societies are taking the leadership of this Campaign.

But the societies that have no debt, the Congregational Church Building Society, the Congregational Educational Society, the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society, and the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief are co-operating with them, both to help clear off the burden of debt and to secure the balance of the half million ($227,000), which will be divided among the seven societies, according to the proportion recommended by the "Advisory Committee" in the Apportionment Plan.

This is a great "Forward Movement" to secure a marked advance in all our missionary work in every department, and we feel sure that all our churches will welcome it, and that a multitude of rich and generous givers will find this just the opportunity to help forward the work of the Kingdom.

A church in Wisconsin writes: "The check was received with great rejoicing and many expressions of gratitude. This puts us in a condition to go on, with a sense of security and the feeling that our work will yield permanent results."

A church in Oklahoma writes: "The action of the Building Society is most highly appreciated. It has helped us out in time of great need. We will remember it, and in a most practical way in the future. For this interest in our behalf we are deeply grateful."

PAID TO PARSONAGES.

List of appropriations paid as loans to aid in building parsonages for Congregational churches. These loans are secured by a first mortgage on the property, and are paid to the Society in instalments; the annual sums so paid vary according to the amount of the loan. When the payments thus made are equal to the amount of the mortgage, the obligation of the church is to be cancelled, and the parsonage becomes the property of the church free from all debts.

ROLLING PARTITIONS

For dividing Church and School Buildings. Sound-proof and air-tight. In various kinds of wood. Made also with blackboard Surface. These partitions are a marvelous convenience, easily operated, very durable, and do not get out of order. Also, made to roll vertically. Over 5,000 Churches and many Public School Buildings are using them.

Mention CHURCH-BUILDING QUARTERLY for Free Pamphlet.

OUTSIDE VENETIAN BLINDS

Combining blind and awning. Applied to any window. Light and elegant, yet so strong that storms cannot harm them. Bronze Metal Tapes. Last for years. Pull up out of sight. Also Inside Venetian and Rolling Steel Shutters.

PERSONS having copies of the CHURCH BUILDING QUARTERLY from 1883 to 1900, which they can spare, are requested to send them to the Secretary of the Congregational Church Building Society, 105 East 22d Street, New York; also of the issue of April, 1900; April and July, 1901; July, 1902; July, 1904; and April and July, 1907.

Also, copies of the Manual of the Society published before 1883.

We are completing our files.
